Biographical history
Little is known of the American writer Anna Russell of 593 Riverside drive, New York and latterly Sunny south farms, Fort Ogden, Florida, who was an admirer of the work of Jack Butler Yeats, William Butler Yeats, Elizabeth Corbet Yeats, and other 20th century Irish authors and artists. Anna Russell was the sister of the actress Elizabeth Russell whom Jack Butler Yeats had met in Dublin [c.1932]. When Anna Russell began her correspondence with Jack Butler Yeats [c.1932] Yeats believed her to be her sister. Anna Russell allowed this misunderstanding to continue until the summer of 1946 when she visited Yeats in Dublin and he discovered his mistake. This caused no ill feeling between the pair who continued a regular correspondence in which Yeats often advised Russell regarding pieces she was writing on himself, William Butler Yeats, or Elizabeth Corbet Yeats, until Yeats’s death in 1957. Anna Russell visited Jack Butler Yeats a number of times at his home on Fitzwilliam square and at the Portobello nursing home, during visits to Ireland in 1946, 1950, and 1954. Anna Russell published essays about Jack Butler Yeats including an essay entitled ‘An American admires Jack Butler Yeats’ in Irish illustrated, vol. 1, no. 5: December 1956 and ‘Remembering Jack Yeats’ in the Colby library quarterly, Series 6, no. 8: December 1963 in which she recounts the misunderstanding which led to her getting to know Yeats. Russell also wrote an article entitled ‘The few prize’ [about William Butler Yeats] though it is unclear if this was published.

1. Letters from Jack Butler Yeats to Anna Russell

Series
[c.1932]-1956
2 files & 45 items

Includes letters sent by Yeats to Anna Russell. Prior to 1946 Yeats in fact believed he was in correspondence with Anna Russell’s sister, the actress Elizabeth Russell, whom he had met in Dublin (see Y13/3/10). Many of the letters relate to Russell’s work as a writer, and in particular to her work on both William Butler Yeats and Jack Butler Yeats. Yeats also discusses his own work and his exhibitions. Series includes two Christmas greeting cards with original sketches.

Y13/1/1  [c.1932-1946]
File, 6 items

Undated Christmas greeting cards and note from Jack Butler Yeats and Mary Cottenham Yeats [to Anna Russell].

Y13/1/2  16 May 1932
1 item, 2pp

Letter from Jack Butler Yeats, 18 Fitzwilliam square to [Anna Russell]. Yeats describes his paintings The tinker’s child and The kiss for Russell. He admits that it may be that people can see things in his paintings which were not there. He asserts that he does not mean to be difficult but cannot ‘paint doors to fit keys’. Also refers to the joy he had in painting The dark bathe.

Y13/1/3  1 March 1939
1 item, 1p

Letter from Jack Butler Yeats, 18 Fitzwilliam square to [Anna Russell]. Thanks Russell for her letter of sympathy on the death of William Butler Yeats whom he doesn’t think had ‘left much writing undone’.

Y13/1/26
31 July 1951
1 item, 2pp

Letter from Jack Butler Yeats, 18 Fitzwilliam square, Dublin, to Anna Russell.
Yeats relates that he is home and painting again and that he is sad about the Abbey theatre, Dublin, “burning up” if not “out”. Refers to the death of an unnamed poet and the American tour of the loan exhibition of his paintings with began in Boston and will finish in New York.
Y13/1/27  11 August 1951
1 item, 1p

Letter from Jack Butler Yeats, 18 Fitzwilliam square, Dublin, to Anna Russell.
Letter accompanied a copy of The lonely tower by T. R. Henn. Yeats will glad meet Russell’s friends Mr. and Mrs T. R. Mallon. Mentions that he will continue to paint but does not expect to write anymore. Relates that Michael Yeats has been nominated as senator.

Y13/1/28  5 September 1951
1 item, 2pp

Letter from Jack Butler Yeats, 18 Fitzwilliam square, Dublin, to Anna Russell.
Yeats enjoyed meeting Mr. and Mrs T. R. Mallon at the Shelbourne hotel. He is happy for Russell to write about his painting but dislikes any personal details or comment about him being given. Goes on to advise her not to discuss his books which he considers ‘another matter altogether’. He encloses a copy of the Boston catalogue [of his loan exhibition] which he liked but which could be improved.

Y13/1/29  17 November 1951
1 item, 2pp

Letter from Jack Butler Yeats, 18 Fitzwilliam square, Dublin, to Anna Russell.
Yeats advises that Russell can use any thing about him from the second Boston catalogue [of his loan exhibition] which omitted personal details. He did not like James Sweeney’s article about him as it had too much about his books. Continues with advice about Russell’s writing and remarks on the failings of works on William Butler Yeats by other unnamed authors.

Y13/1/30  [? December 1951]
1 item, 1p

Y13/1/37
29 December 1953
1 item, 2pp

Letter from Jack Butler Yeats, 18 Fitzwilliam square, Dublin, to Anna Russell.
Yeats offers encouragements regarding Russell’s writing, informs her that Thomas McGreevy had sailed for New York that morning for the art history congress and could be contacted at the Metropolitan museum. Reports that his Dublin exhibition was a success and that a loan exhibition will open in Paris 8 February 1954.

Y13/1/38
7 April 1954
1 item, 2pp

Letter from Jack Butler Yeats, 18 Fitzwilliam square, Dublin, to Anna Russell.
Yeats sympathises with Russell’s difficulty in getting her work [on Ireland] published by periodicals: he asserts that publishers suffer from too much rather than too little imagination. Refers to James Healy saying that he is a fine collector and that he hopes Healy is happy in the good he does by donating his books and paintings.
Y13/1/39  11 May 1954
1 item, 2pp

Letter from Jack Butler Yeats, Portobello house, Portobello bridge, Dublin, to Anna Russell.
Thanks Russell for the illuminating cutting about the gallery of modern art in New York. Refers to Mr [James Healy] and an intention to find the original drawing for [Oliver St. John Gogarty’s] book. Confirms that the painting with the shaft of sunlight, woman, and bent tree was called White shower. Yeats suggests that the originality of her point of view in her writing about Ireland is the cause of the difficulty in securing a publisher.

Y13/1/40  18 October 1954
1 item, 2pp

Letter from Jack Butler Yeats, 18 Fitzwilliam square, Dublin, to Anna Russell.
Discusses Russell’s writing and the ceremony surrounding his gifting of a painting to the city of Sligo.

Y13/1/41  29 October 1954
1 item, 1p

Letter from Jack Butler Yeats, Portobello house, Portobello bridge, Dublin, to Anna Russell.

Y13/1/42  12 October 1955
1 item, 2pp

Letter from Jack Butler Yeats, 18 Fitzwilliam square, Dublin, to Anna Russell.
Thanks her for sending a copy of Edward Dowden’s letters whom he asserts writes with ‘from a full Cork heart the quality of whose mercy does not have to be strained...’.
Letter from Jack Butler Yeats, Portobello house, Portobello bridge, Dublin, to Anna Russell.
Relates to her article ‘An American admires’ on the work of Yeats. Yeats approves of what she has written but objects to her referring to his studio as ‘little’ and asks her not to include photographs, reproductions, or personal details. Yeats encloses a circular for Irish illustrated magazine, then starting out, as a possible publisher.

Letter from Jack Butler Yeats, Portobello house, Portobello bridge, Dublin, to Anna Russell.
Yeats asserts that she has the right idea in her approach to writing about William Butler Yeats and reports that [Thomas McGreevy] is writing to Mr Stack about his illustrations.

Letter from Jack Butler Yeats, Portobello house, Portobello bridge, Dublin, to Anna Russell.
Yeats conveys season’s greetings and congratulations on the success of Russell’s article.

Letter from Thomas MacGreevy, 24 Fitzwilliam place, Dublin to Anna Russell.
MacGreevy writes on behalf of Jack Butler Yeats who is unwell but wishes to give Russell permission to reproduce his two Christmas cards and his Storm picture for her article in Irish illustrated. Advises that the Society of Authors takes cares of Yeats’s copyright.
Letter from Jack Butler Yeats, Portobello house, Portobello bridge, Dublin, to Anna Russell. Yeats thanks Russell for the flattering picture she created of him as a young man and gently admonishes her for calling donkey’s stubborn.
